Prologue

From the opening bell in September to the final bell in June, there is a transformation. A football field is converted into the majesty of a great stadium; a lonely auditorium embraces the splendor of an 'opening night performance'; a hopeless gym floor becomes the magic that is a prom. A breath of fresh air of involvement and compassion displaces smugness and contentment. In between the bells and after.

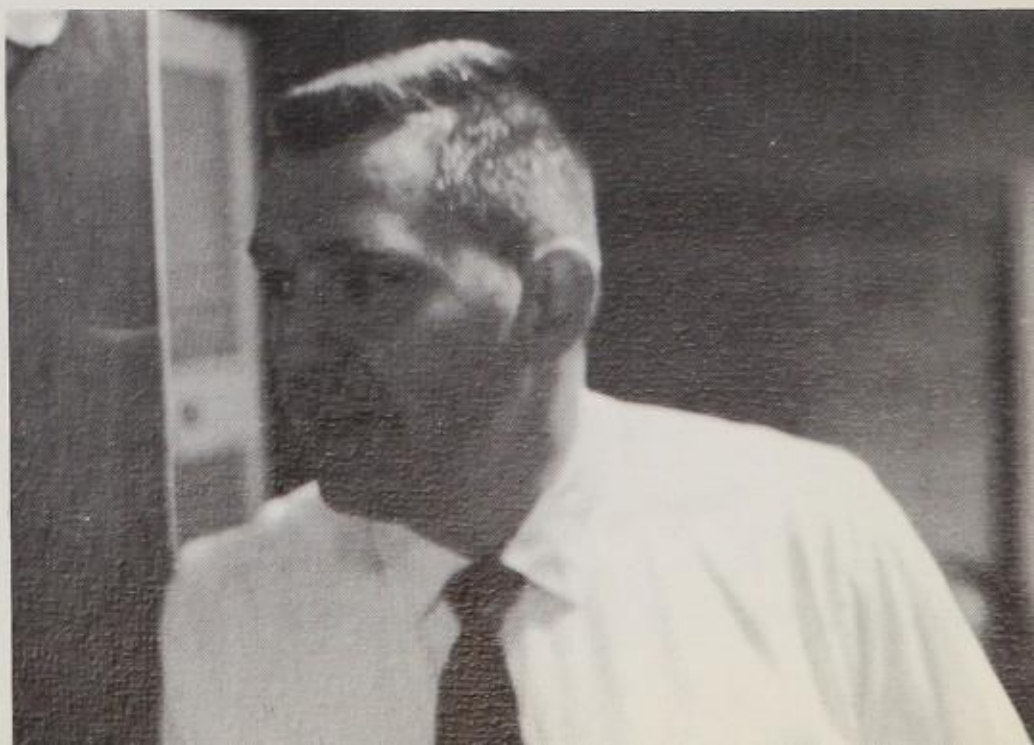
This year, as always, our students have kept a diary—the TENAKIN—the record of our involvement—of each of our students doing his own thing.

Our time in the ring has often been trying, but no fight worth winning is easy. And it is the happiest time of our lives.

The ring is Tenafly High School. This round is ours.

Academics

Learning is a wonderfully strange business. Through it we can gain responsibility and motivation that alone give it true meaning. Learning can be discouraging, too, but we have learned most when we realize how little we really do know. Only then can we realize new vistas in comprehension beyond our personal experience, but not beyond our grasp. The day-to-day liberal education in which we are all involved can and must stimulate each of us to fulfill our personal and intellectual selves.



Principal Mr. Eugene Van Vliet reviews the year's schedule.

To The Class of '69 —

Over 1100 students have begun to respect your integrity, scholarship and leadership. The air of excitement I feel in the school this year comes from many things, but mostly from the fact that the class of 1969 has accepted courageously the mantle of leadership.

Academically you have more than your share of Merit Scholarship Finalists and Letters of Commendation; college officials who have visited Tenafly reflect justification for our pride.

Football, soccer, cross-country have had successful seasons; "Twelve Angry Jurors" was tremendous as well as timely; art exhibits were constantly a source of creative aesthetics; music gave us pleasure throughout the year—what growth you had! Cooking, clothing, electronics, shop, business education—each with its own splendid accomplishments. And S.O.—an outstanding year, uniting all class councils, club activities and our new promising administration-faculty-student dialogue through the Communication Committee.

Writing in December, what do I prophesy? Your class will be remembered among many good things, for continuation of Tenafly traditions in art, electronics, practical arts. But most of all, I believe you will be remembered for your leadership in two areas: namely, involvement and service. Only your wisdom in working hard academically prevented your being involved in more and more current items. The good thing was always that you realized the limits of practicality, feasibility, and propriety. Throughout the year your sense of involvement led you to serve local, state, national, and even international groups. You gave not only your money and your gifts, but your time to man's greatest ideal, service to his fellow man.

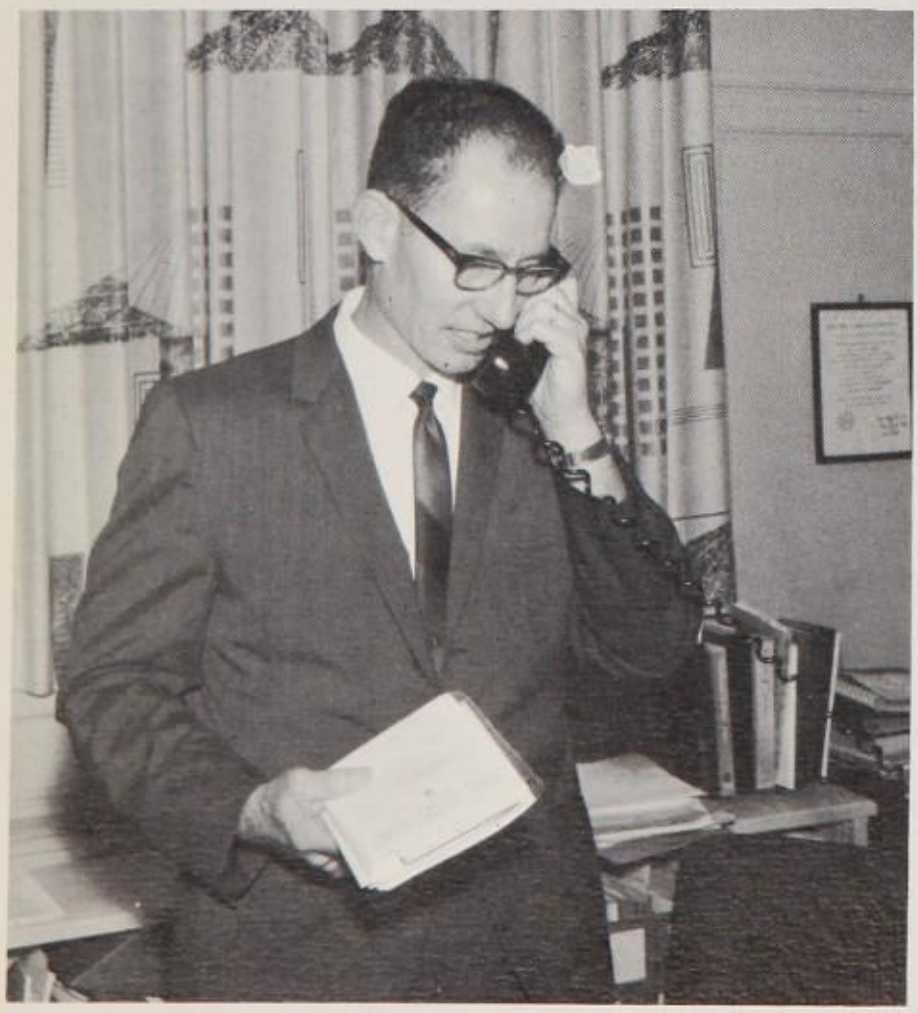
Leaders Assure Opportunities for a Liberal Education

When competent heads assemble, progress is bound to be made. Such is the situation of Tenafly's nine Board of Education members, who meet frequently to discuss the achievements and problems of Tenafly's educational system. Thorough analysis and research lead the Board to proposed solutions, recounted in an informative newsletter.

Specifically, this organization investigates, among other topics, improvements in curriculum and teachers' salaries. The most urgent issue, however, is the problem of secondary school revision. Intensive surveys have been made so that the Board can recommend the most suitable site to the public.



Assistant Superintendent of Schools Dr. W. A. Wollam carefully explores the proposed Sex Education curriculum for Tenafly's schools.

Dedicated to the progress of the Tenafly school system, Superintendent Dr. John B. Geissinger plans for the individual school curricula with foresight.

Forever busy, Tenafly's Parent Teachers Association imaginatively plans projects benefitting students, teachers, and all Tenafly residents. With more members than ever, the PTA recently increased their number of scholarships from four to five. In addition, they sponsored two popular projects: Back-to-School Nite and the alumni reunion.

Guidance Department

Transforming frightened freshmen into suave seniors, the guidance department helps the student crystallize his interests and abilities. In the freshman year a process of self-evaluation begins with a series of tests and interviews, culminating at graduation in an awareness of a field which will suit one's interests.

Harvard or Harvey Mudd? Choosing a college is a senior dilemma which the guidance department helps solve with a multitude of college representatives and catalogues. For those who seek high school and post-high school employment, hints on job opportunities are also available. With this wise guidance, developed through many years of experience, the counselor breeds independence and a sense of responsibility in the student.

Various college catalogues are a part of many a student's room.

Browsing through the bewildering array of college catalogues which are on file in the guidance department are Janet Feigelson and Sharon Goldstein.

Mrs. Ida Emerizy contemplates Mr. Van Vliet's hectic schedule while responding to a member of THS's Communications Committee.

Secretaries, Custodians, and Cafeteria Crew—Staffs of Life at THS

Behind-the-scenes at THS is a group of industrious women deserving special tribute. Able to meet any demands, administrative secretaries amiably answer phones, accurately fill out employment forms, and cordially handle the school's correspondence.

Having completed piles of college transcripts and SAT registrations, guidance secretaries, among other things, follow up on former students, inquiring about their accomplishments. Combining skill and patience, these perpetually smiling secretaries rise above and beyond the call of duty in their willing assistance to grateful students and teachers.

Ascertaining an appointment for a student's college conference, Mrs. Mildred Brier arranges the complex daily guidance office schedule.

Scheduling difficulties pose no real problem for Mrs. Mildred Coyle, who smooths details with involved teachers and students.

Awaiting the numerous seniors who greet her with transcript forms for college applications is dependable Mrs. Elizabeth Becker.

Contented with the Student Organization's newly acquired apple machine to supplement their lunches; Mr. Charles Courand, Mrs. Catherine Hoag, Mr. Junius Tinsley, Mr. Alfred Suarez, Mrs. Barbara Mosconi, Mrs. Anna Venturi, Mrs. Lelia Handy, and Mrs. Lucy Trombetti await students.

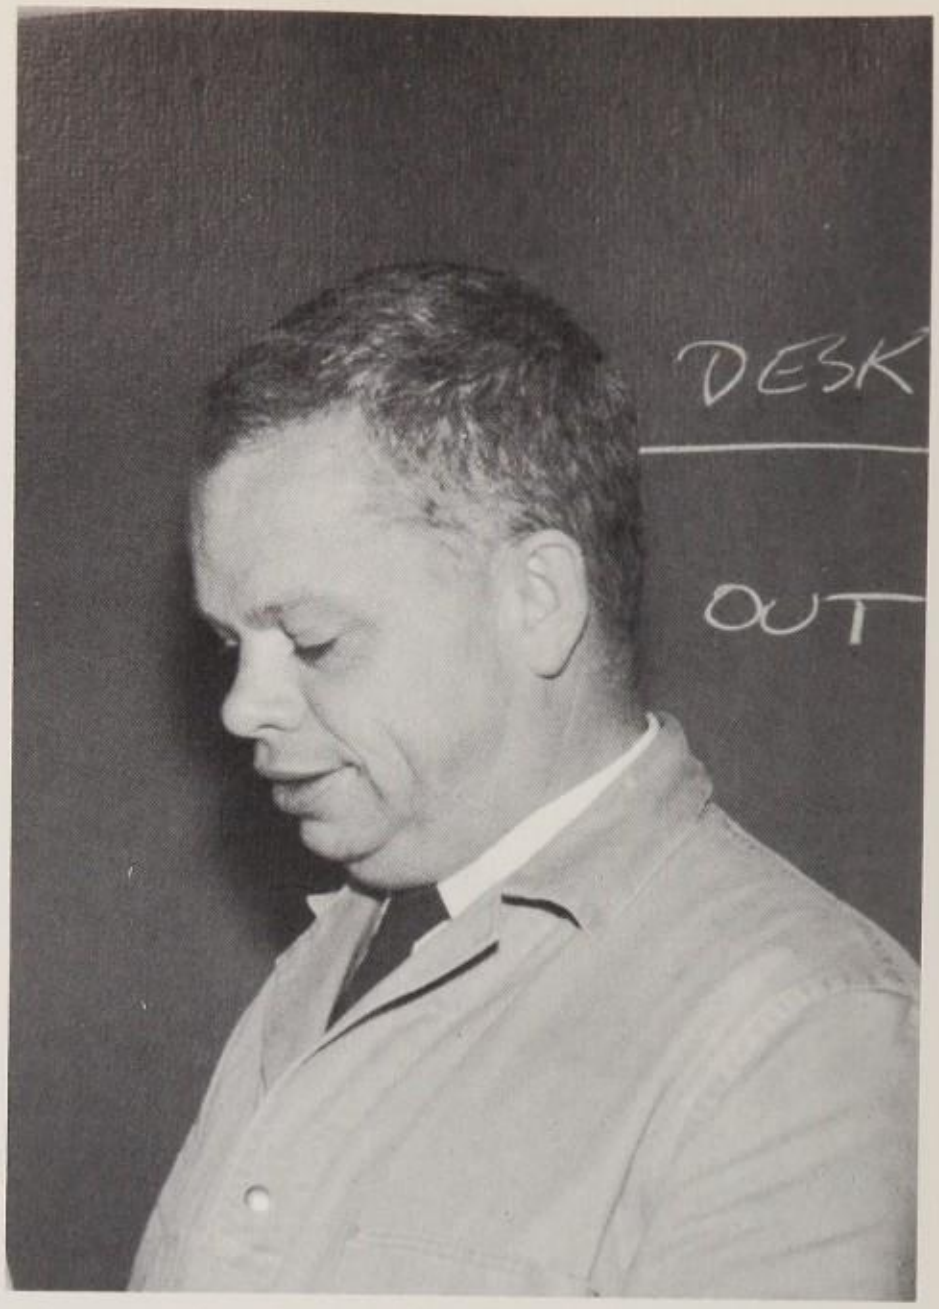
Proud to acknowledge the past accomplishments of his capable custodial staff, Mr. John Van Derhoff continually strives for cleaner blackboards and clearer walks.

Famished and fumbling THS'ers can always depend on the faithful aid of two indispensable staffs. The unbridled rush to the lunchroom oasis reflects the success of the competent cafeterial helpers. Preparing and serving hearty meals as well as handling finances with rapid efficiency occupy these cheerful workers.

No matter what the dilemma, jovial custodians meet the challenge with equal capability. Besides maintaining an admirably clean school, they rescue trapped students from behind gates and shed light on students in the dark. In popularity, these 15 men and women receive an A+ from thankful onlookers.

Devoted THS Custodial Staff, Robert Seele, Casimir Wolek, Toni Mazello, Alfred Meissner, Clara Kelly, and Alan Burton maintain the school inside and out through their jobs of tending the grounds, cleaning the halls, and helping students retrieve forgotten books from classrooms late at night.

Amiable Mr. James Keen makes learning a pleasure in a very special way.



Reminiscing over his many years of teaching at THS, Mr. M. Bruce Oldford concludes that high school students really haven't changed.

Excellence is the subject of contemplation for Mr. Guenther Teschauer, who strives to realize a bit of it together with his language students.

In Memoriam

MRS. THOMAS VON TACKY

June 16, 1912—March 20, 1969

Selfishness was a word Mrs. von Tacky could never understand. In her all too brief stay at Tenafly she gave fully of herself to all her students. This attribute endeared her to those who got to know this wonderful woman. Always willing to lend a helping hand, Mrs. von Tacky was able to help us with more than just our English.

We will not forget her example which is summed up in the words of Winston Churchill, "Failure is not fatal. Success is not final. It's courage that counts."

English Teachers Acquaint Students With Great Literary Traditions

Helping pro- and anti-Freudists analyze Oedipus, Mrs. Mae Lupatkin arouses lively discussion of fate vs. free will.

Perceptively detecting and patiently explaining an intricate error of composition, Mrs. Gloria Nelson assists eleventh grader John Heim in correcting his essay.

"Out, out, damned spot!" proclaims Mrs. Joan Goodwin, vividly enacting Lady MacBeth's plea.

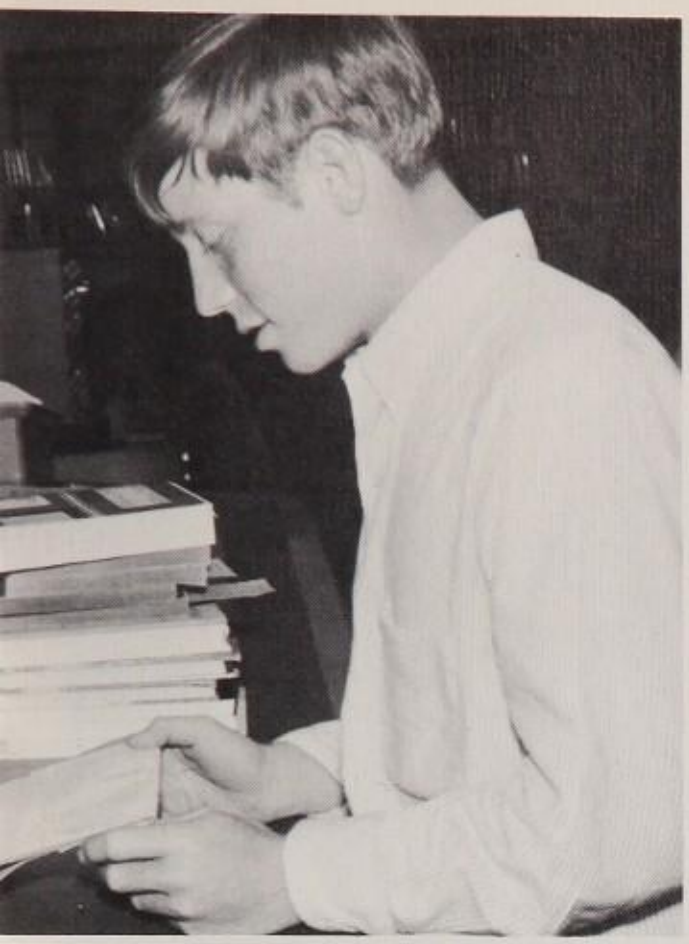
"Stop sign E—look ahead!" warns articulate Mrs. Leo McCarthy as she teaches helpful hints for good grammar.

Guiding his students through mythology, Mr. Edward Coghlan and his Beau Brummels explore English literature.

Reviewing some great men in American literature, Mrs. Gertrude Fass instills in her classes a desire to emulate Hemingway and Hawthorne.



assistance from Miss Barbara Brando, whose students locate information for their reports.

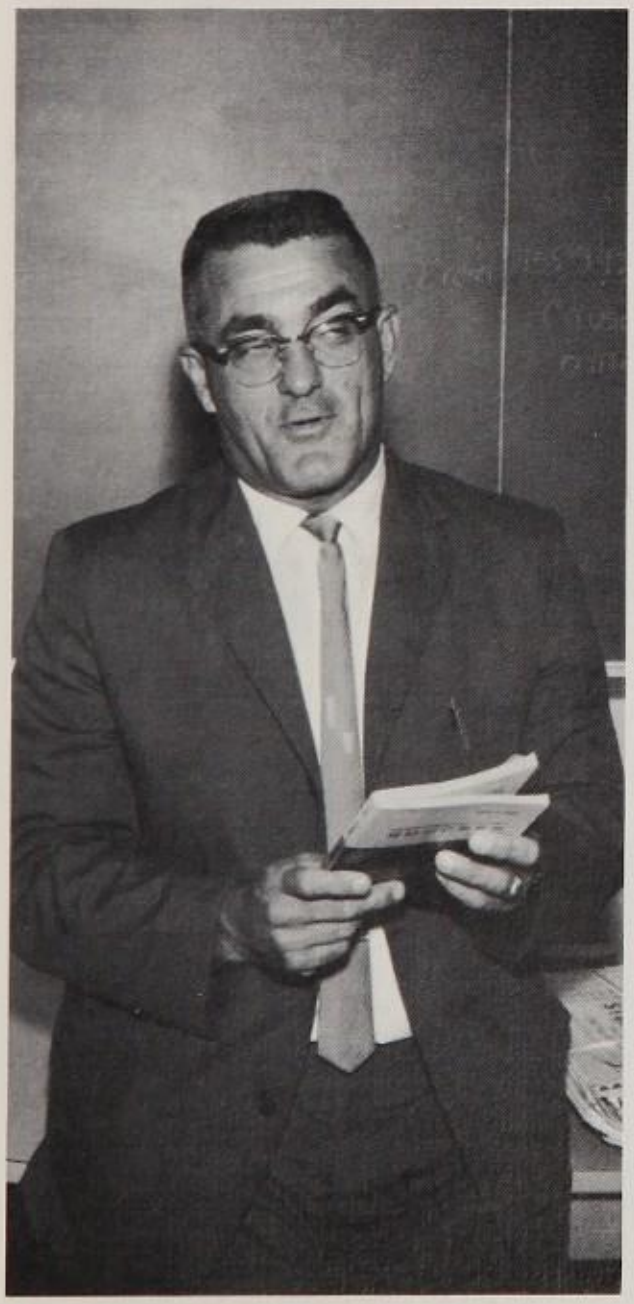
Of more immediate relevance to THSers, American literature motivates thought and involvement by exposing the problems unique to this developing nation. Defending civil disobedience, challenging racial injustice, and capturing the pioneer spirit, its authors express America's search for a moral identity.

This theme is manifest in both poetry and prose. Novelists isolate moral questions in The Red Badge of Courage, The Scarlet Letter, and Ethan Frome, as do the playwrights of "Our Town" and "The Glass Menagerie." The imagery of Frost and Sandburg introduces a unit of modern poetry.

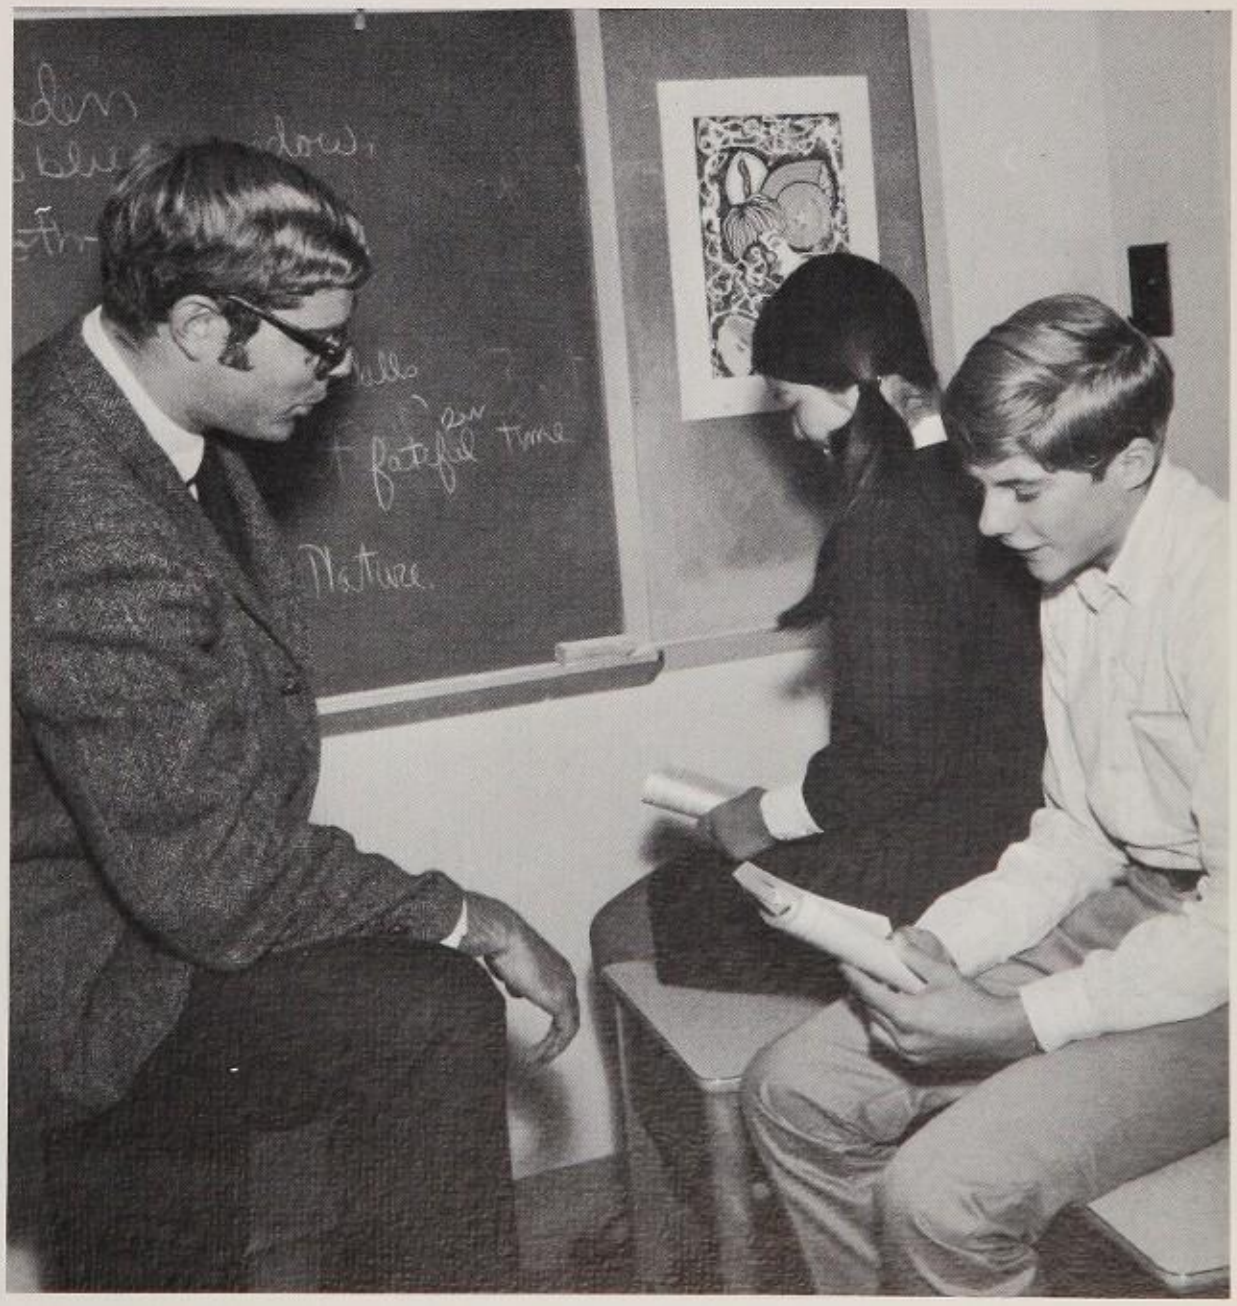
Writing . . . shaping ideas with words . . . studying and imitating notable styles . . . English I equips freshmen with the flexibility to express their thoughts in an organized, flowing, and unified manner. These rules of composition apply to all of the year's creative writing: poems, myths, and analyses.

Before acquiring individual styles, freshmen sample many literary techniques: the conciseness of Hemingway's The Old Man and the Sea, the epithets of Homer's Odyssey, the romantic imagery of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet. The unit on mythology, a highlight, traces the twining Greek family tree.

Individuals Seek Modes of Expression



Stressing a point with a pun, Mr. Francis Platt teaches the importance of vocabulary.



Always willing to help interested students, such as Yuko Usami and John Warren, Mr. George Reilly explains the philosophy of Frost and Sandburg and their literary importance.

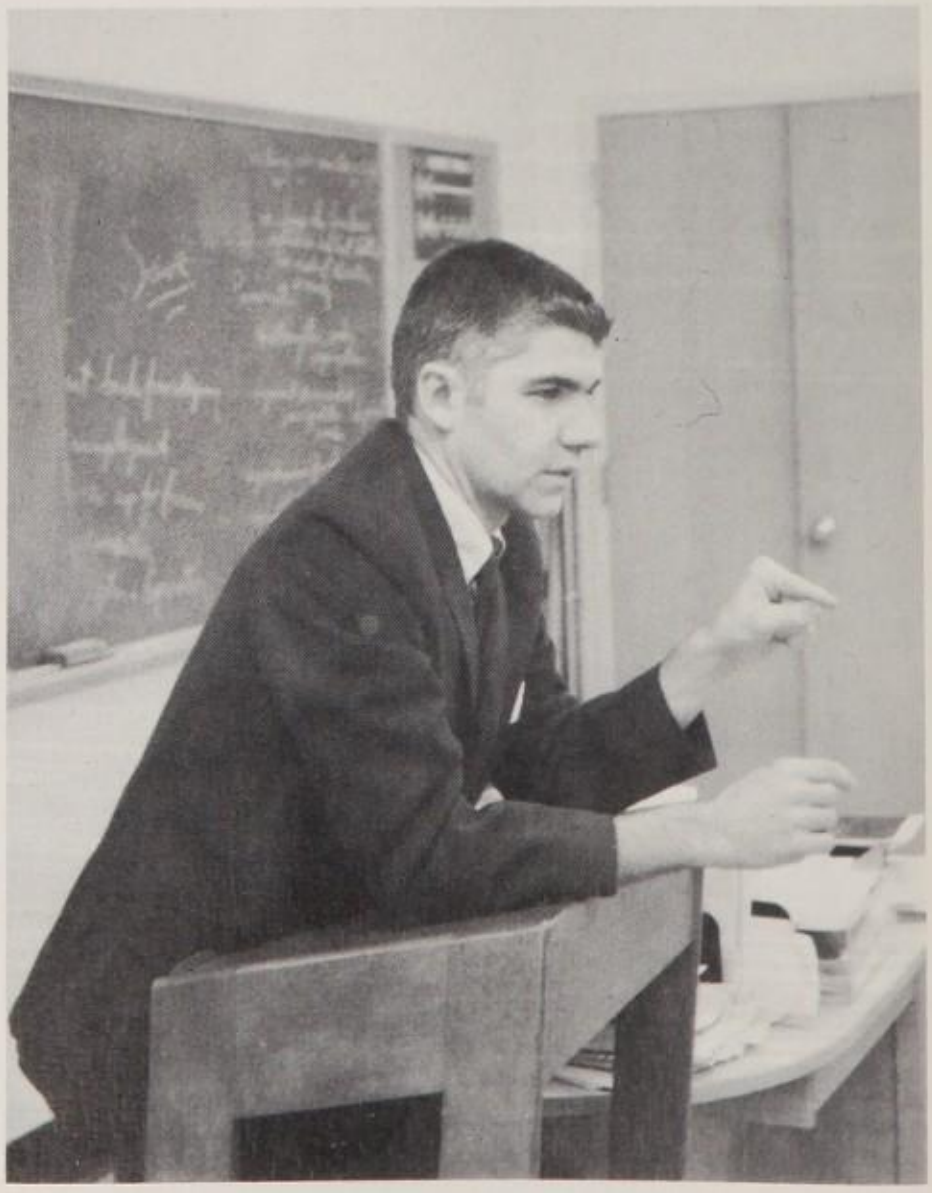
Delighted with Ann Ritter's inquiries concerning the Crusades and the mystical Orient, Mr. John Mullin enthusiastically encourages students to explore varied annals of history.



Emphasizing the fundamental doctrines of Communism, Mr. Gordon Wallace also describes current Soviet life to his 20th Century class.

. . . It Was and Is

Pinpointing one's position on the timeline of history requires an understanding of man's past, present, and future. World History facilitates this placement by surveying the entire sweep of human progress from Neanderthal simplicity to nuclear advances. Asian and African studies have become major focal points due to their growing world importance.

Often overlooked non-western civilizations, including those of Latin America and the Middle East, are highlighted in Twentieth Century World. This elective isolates the roots of current problems and creates personal concern for these situations on the part of the students.

Juxtaposing chronological and topical approaches to history characterizes the American History courses at THS. U.S. History I relives the amazing era between the Revolution and World War I. Using a selection of books, U.S. History II watches America break from isolationism and rise to power.

Visual aids augment class work in both courses. Seven Days in May, The Ox-Bow Incident, and Grapes of Wrath, for example, enhance the student's perception. Panel discussions and debates give students an opportunity to research a subject or defend a point of view on such collateral topics as economics and foreign policy. These activities involve students in areas of modern history including politics and government.

Searching through the dark regions of prehistoric eras, Mr. Lewis Brown sheds light on the topic of cavemen.

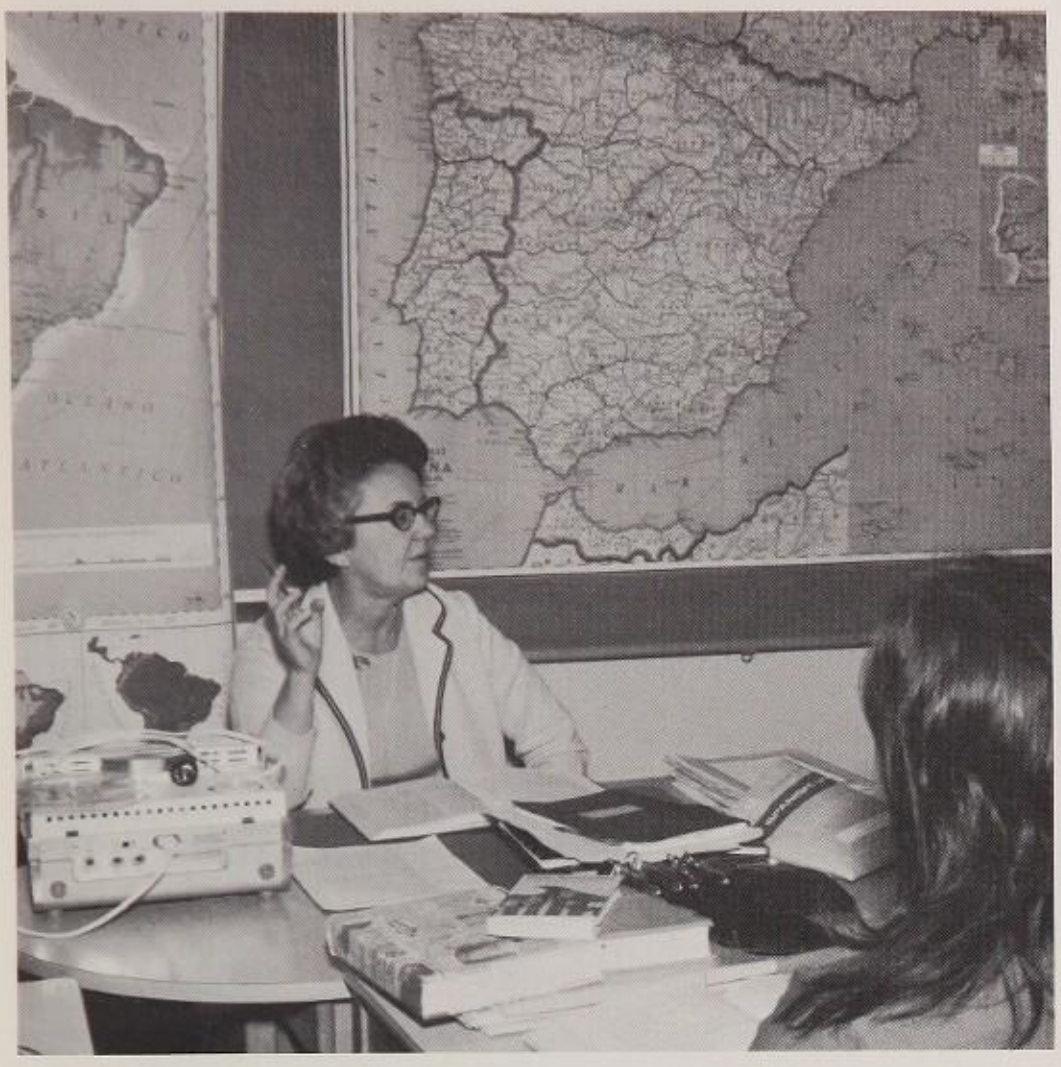
As bustling as the General Assembly, Room 108 is THS's center of multilingual activity. Teachers of five languages gather here, representing a department vital to this shrinking world. Language courses use the ALM approach. Levels I-III stress a familiarity with the vocabulary and a mastery of basic grammar. Literature, history, and advanced grammar are discussed in Levels IV and V.

Latin, however, follows a two-year program, creating an awareness of the Roman language's influence on modern tongues. First year declensions haunt students, and the Gallic Wars, a part of second year reading, present a syntactical challenge.

Speaking like a native, Mrs. Rose Willens shows Larry Barnes that the second person plural of the past subjunctive of an irregular verb can be fun.



Standard classroom utensils such as a map of Portugal and Spain are the basis for Miss Maria Rosa Ochoa's detailed lectures on Spanish literature.

Distinguishing "´" from "`" and Villon from Vigny are efforts of THS's extensive French program. The ALM project is enriched by theater trips. "The Marriage of Figaro" and "The Misanthrope" enlivened grammar studies this year. Preparing for the AP exam, 14 French V étudiants read and analyze novels, plays, and poems from all literary periods.

Rounding out the linguistic curriculum, five years of German studies offer students the opportunity to fully absorb this language. From the syncopation of folk rock to the tranquility of a symphony, music appreciation and music literature interpret streams of musical masterpieces. The Land of Mathemagic

D. Wiseman while his students delve into the more mathematical probabilities important to the future.

Translating the genius of Pythagoras, Euclid, Pascal and Rolle into practical usage is one of the aims of ambitious math teachers. This venture begins in Algebra I, with fundamental principles. Cartesian planes, variables, linear equations, and quadratics are concepts necessary for pragmatic applications as well as for work in higher mathematics.

Working in their new surroundings—the trailers—geometricians prove theorems related to plane figures. New features include use of the overhead projector, and trigonometry for advanced classes. Studying the vocabulary of mathematics, Algebra II students analyze inequalities, logarithms, and series, while mathematical induction and delta challenge honors students.

"How to maneuver through Las Vegas in one handy C.P. course"—the uses of College Preparatory Math are limitless! Besides probability, the year's work covers trigonometry and conic sections, both of which pertain to scientific careers.

Manifestation of previous math courses is reached in calculus, where selected seniors prepare for the Advanced Placement exam. The college text guides students through the differential and integral calculi, as well as analytic geometry.

Another math elective is Senior Math, where career-bound students prepare for daily problems. Working on income tax, interest rates, and checking accounts, these seniors solve the problems of financial technicalities.

of the Tree of Knowledge

Shaping such practical items as jet tips and right angle bends, agile lab students Vicki Paes, Judy Riedl, and Greg Zec learn a new skill.

Element 105 . . . heart transplants . . . moon shots . . . science progresses at a phenomenal rate, seeking answers to urgent problems. A high school must enlighten its students as to both past and present trends in science and involve them in this development. With a faculty kept informed by individual studies, THS meets this challenge with success.

An entirely new vocabulary is discovered in chemistry, the study of matter and its changes—neutrino, mole, Ytterbium, and 6.023×10^{23}. In the lab, abstract ideas become concrete actualities as students learn to make observations and draw conclusions. Innovative film loops clarify the lab work.

Fusing elements of physics and chemistry, physical science instills in freshmen a new awareness of their surroundings. Lab work in chemical bonding and reactions, electricity, and mechanics, a newly added field, sparks the interest of many.

Motivated to expand their ken to a multitude of topics, juniors accept the challenge of physics. Changing with the times, this department purchased and introduced a helium-neon laser and a cathode ray tube this year. New areas of study include microwaves and computers. On Saturday mornings, a group of inspired seniors seek further involvement by attending informal lectures on advanced realms.

Knowledge of this drawer filled with unfamiliar scientific utensils may hold the key which will unlock future biological discoveries.

Stare at a paramecia for two billion years and it will struggle through life as a planaria, clam, goldfish, robin, and ultimately man. The biology course traces this evolutionary path, pausing at the various phyla to explore their organisms. A major objective is introducing students to the microscope and dissecting tools.

In addition to re-examining the kingdoms, Advanced Biology considers recent topics including radiation and DNA, areas of astounding progress. Emphasis is placed on weekly labs where blood counts are taken and fetal pigs are dissected.

Second-grade fingerpainting creations ripen into sophisticated chefs-d'oeuvre as students examine the world of art in an attempt to perfect their own styles. Not only the career-minded, but also those who enjoy dabbling in various media benefit from Arts I and II.

Continuing into the third and fourth years, interested students select an area of specialization. Sculpture, enamelling, and layout design are but a few. The development of an individual style culminates in Art V, where gifted artists prepare themselves to accept any responsibilities their professions may demand.

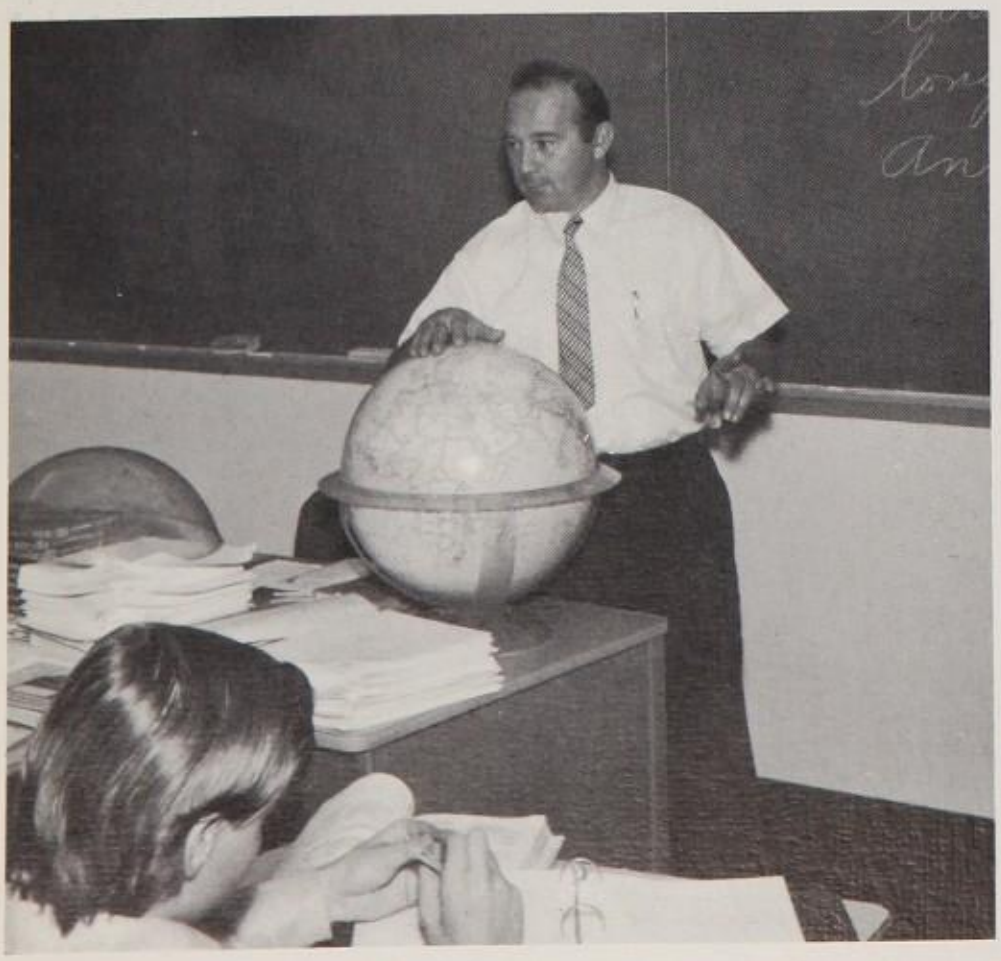
Career Skills Perfected

Endless tapping that rushes from the southwest corridor of THS sparks the curiosity of passersby. Training future secretaries in specialized fields and offering all students a background in time-saving skills explains this clatter; this is the business education department.

Typing and shorthand remedy the writer's cramp afflicting all high school students. The advanced secretarial practice course delves into finer areas—data processing, accounting, and transcription.

Applying their skills, student secretaries provide vital services to teachers and administration. Equipped with electric typewriters, calculators, and comptometers, the business department produces avid workers, ready for success in their future careers.

Hoping to encourage well-typed term papers and better grades, Miss Gail Jiacalone gazes with approval as Mark Jacobs labors industriously.



Sitting on top of the world, Mr. Charles Billings expounds upon economic aspects of geography, including the Suez Canal and the Texas oil fields.

Skillfully guiding the hand of seamstress Thea Litsios, Miss Hilda Key spurs homemaking interests of THS girls in preparation for managing future families.

The intricacies often overlooked in a gracious table setting are only one of many practical lessons taught in Home Economics class.

Eager to get an early start in the field of home economics, students find their way to the productive clothing and foods corridor of THS. Their enthusiasm in these courses can be smelled, tasted, and seen as they experiment with new recipes and patterns. THS can be proud to say that its cooking course attracts interested members of both sexes.

An equally important part of home economics is the lively discussions of the family living course, in which students seize a thorough understanding of social problems. These electives give the students a chance to discover and develop constructive talents and interests.

Homemaking Interests Cultivate Personal Touch

Practical Home Economics teacher Mrs. Arlene Kirman discusses table setting with eager pupils D. Bader, T. Maniscalco, and K. Kenney.

Safety Comes First in Driver Education Classes

Beware of bumper-bangers and fender-benders; student drivers are on the road! Overwhelmed by the intricate rules of the drivers' manual (when was the first motor vehicle law passed?), and terrified by the graphically shocking movies, juniors familiarize themselves with the privilege of driving.

The best preparation comes from practice, gained weekly in the dual-control driver education car. Classroom and road training equip the students with more than enough know-how to succeed in their permit and license tests. Statistics make the point—94.837% pass on their first try.

Involvement in High School Begins with

Bill Worth, S.O. President.

1968-1969 has been a year of marked change in the nature of our student organization. The trend has carried us away from pep rallies and dances, which in past years were thought to be essential to "school spirit."

Simultaneously, the SO has given itself over to affairs more vital to the needs of the student. The SO has truly become the "mouthpiece" of our school. The Communication Committee, in its initial year, has proved that direct contact between students, faculty, and administration is vital to THS. The committee has fostered discussion resulting in the apple machine and cafeteria music. The topics of limited exemption for senior final exams and the wearing of boots have also been aired during these significant meetings.

The distinguished work of various committees has led to some of this years' SO's brightest moments. The Charity Committee's fund raising drive for Biafra was the school's most financially successful effort. The Assembly Committee and Election Committee combined for the mock election assembly, an excellent production that exhibited Tenafly's student awareness and concern.

In a year of change, the student Organization has promoted a mature form of government whose activities instill a sense of involvement and meaningful unity in THSers. This valuable form of "school spirit" offers unlimited opportunities for progression. Good Luck Class of '70!

Involved Seniors Work for Class

Senior Dance Chairman, Russell Zandonella, happy at his success.

We have made it through high school! It is our year—1969—and the last twelve were climaxed by this senior year of which the Class of '69 can be proud. Senior spirit was initiated by the "Bewitching Hour," the class-sponsored dance last fall. Expressing the mood of Halloween, this successful gathering celebrated the eleventh consecutive league football victory.

The magazine drive of '69 was the most exciting and profitable drive ever. Due to the enthusiasm of the class, sparked by the drive's co-chairmen, Eugene Ebner and Betti Kelly, a big final weekend pushed the class $1,000 over its goal of $17,000.

For the second year, the seniors took their prom out of school to Rockleigh Country Club. Guided by the Class of '68's wise planning, the '69ers, under the unflagging leadership of Steven Hodes, were on cloud nine with the Stuart White Orchestra, even on Friday the 13th.

The largest step forward in student-teacher relations was taken by the Class of '69. Due to diligent work on the part of a small committee, senior exams have been provisionally suspended in hope that this will cure the affliction commonly called "senioritis" and balance the learning process.

As we remember the spirit of '69, we can leave Tenafly High assured that our class has made a meaningful contribution to THS. Thank you for your support.

A. Albertsen plans Jr. Dance, while E. Grodjesk and B. Epstein discuss Candy Sale.

Already in its third year of THS, the active, able, and admirable Junior Class has again proved to be one of the most successful groups in this school.

The '70ers kicked off the year by handling the sale of class rings. The next undertaking was the annual candy sale, often imitated but never equaled. The sale of the Fanny Farmer products was a true class effort and netted $2,400, topping the previous year's sale by a tremendous $700.

Bigger and better things took shape as the year progressed. The rummage sale, organized by John Miele, was used to support the Hopi Indians. Items sold ranged from old books to walky-talkies.

The Class then proceeded to publish its own newspaper, featuring class news and other articles. Written and printed by Juniors, and edited by Arthur Rothman, it was an exciting innovation. Another spring activity was May's Junior Dance, a night to remember.

As is evident, it was a busy year for the Junior Class. Yet perhaps our most important accomplishment has not been mentioned. That achievement was the involvement of a maximum number of Juniors in their class activities. This is a true measure of success.

Lively Sophomore . . .

Spirited Sophomores have achieved overwhelming participation in all their class activities. The year's first project, the Biafra charity drive, was led by the Class of '71, who contributed close to one hundred and fifty dollars. The Sophomores also initiated the Vietnam clothing drive and sold tickets for the Junior-Senior play in the same month. A full house at both nights of the play brought in a total of twelve hundred dollars.

Major projects for the spring were a candy sale and a dance. The candy sale, sponsored by Heath, was held in March. After this success, the Class of '71 innovated a Sophomore dance, which revealed our tremendous class spirit.

We started off with an enthusiastic Freshman year, continued this tradition into this Sophomore year, and we plan in the future to become the leading Junior and Senior classes.

Mr. Brown forsees Frosh projects.

New ideas and opportunities have provided an exiting year for the Class of '72. Aside from sponsoring buses to away freshman football games, we held a class-sponsored dance in February, and a profitable carwash in the spring. We also sold refreshments at home football games to raise money.

The Service Committee successfully executed an egg sale and activities to help the American Indian. Our Publicity Committee publicized all Freshman games and other class events, especially our fund raising project, the bookmobile. Total participation in all these activities has proved that the Class of '72 has great potential in the next three years of high school.

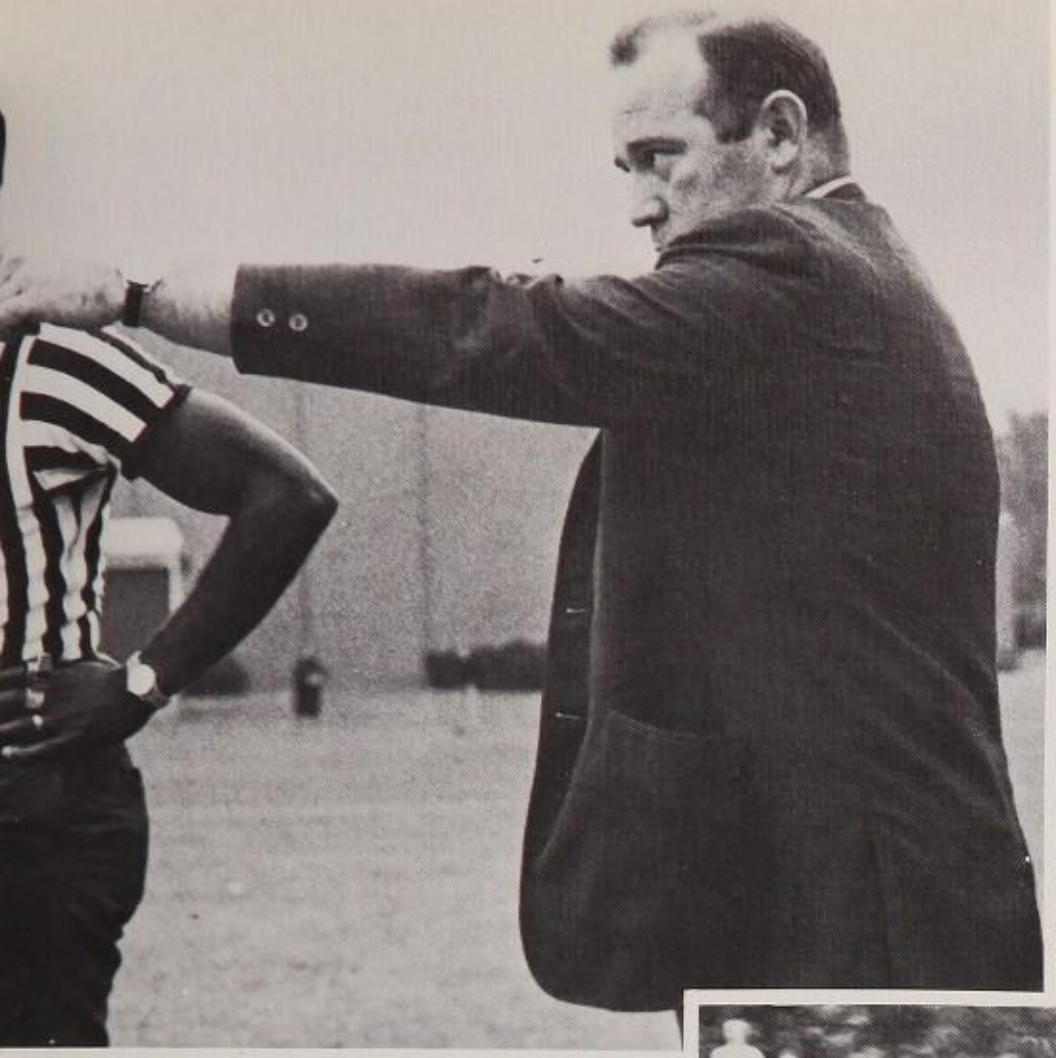
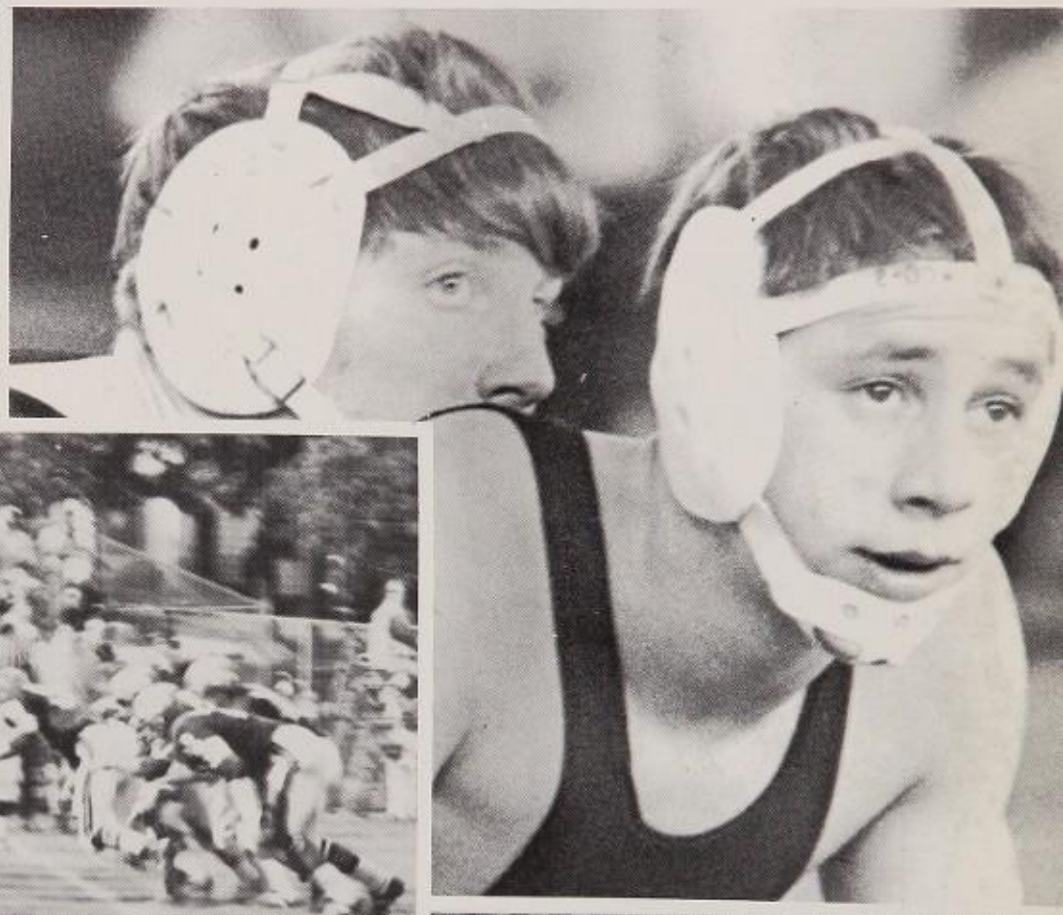
Lonely August workouts, endless hours of jogging and sprints, overdrawn practices, and long, long hours of drilling mean sacrifice. Then too there is that great feeling on the first day of blinding hitting, the conclusion of a long race, the big rebound, and the crack of the bat for the winning run. The field house welcomes you with a familiar air. You sit there, and somehow you know that it has all been worthwhile.





Devoted Head Coach Boaz Firkser appears concerned over the team's execution of the game plan in tension filled first half of a Tiger victory.

Tigers' Reign Continues

Climaxed by a spirited Thanksgiving Day victory over Dumont, the Tenafly football season was once again a successful one. The final game made 1968 a banner season with congratulations in order for Coach Firkser, his staff, and above all, his team.

Rebounding from two early season setbacks, Tenafly continued its dominance in the BCSL American Division; going unbeaten for the second consecutive year, and stretching its league win streak to fifteen games.

The Tigers' offense was almost synonymous with co-captain and second-team All-County selection Ed Harris. Ed scored thirteen touchdowns on the ground, while amassing over 900 yards. Halfbacks Ray Loeb and Dave Anderson gave the Tigers good outside speed. Co-captain Mike Hollander, another All-Bergen selection, made his presence felt both on offense and defense from the tackle position. Frank Wunschel spearheaded the defense and was chosen 1st team All-County for his great efforts. Wunschel also found time to snare five touchdown passes. Most of them were from quarterback Ralph Stanley, who also hit Randy Spydell, Casey Maguire, and Joe Nicolai often. The all-senior defense was quick and tough with all-league Tom Shadek, Phil Langan, and Jim McArdle leading the way.

The highlight of the year was against highly touted Cliffside Park. Harris tallied twice, and Don Benasich kicked two big extra points, but it was Tenafly's stellar defense which stole the show and handed the Red Raiders their sole loss. Tenafly became a team and with renewed confidence continued unbeaten.

Experience, a necessity for a winner, will be lacking next fall, but '69 co-captains Wayne Clarkson and Tony Donovan aren't worried, for it should be easy to win at a school where championships are becoming a habit.

Tiger Soccermen Come on Strong

Hustling Stein Sneider grimaces as he drives past defender to goal.

Playing as a solid unit, the Tenafly soccer team won seven of its last nine games and finished with a fine 8-5-3 record. A stingy defensive unit led by All-County fullback Pete Doyne, fellow tri-captains Bob Steneck and John Caso, and tough juniors Gerry Fichter (1st team all-league) and Gary Schonfeld (honorable mention All-County) gave up only six goals in the last nine games and led the Tigers' comeback. Constant scoring threats were 2nd team All-County Rich Jaegar and senior Stein Sneider. Senior Starter Steve Hodes along with seniors Steve Kasparian, Joe Stegmayer, and Bob Kutik gave the Tigers added depth and strength.

The Tenafly booters had an exciting season, drawing large crowds at each game. Highlighting the season was a victory over a tough Dumont squad. Senior goalie Randy Redard allowed only one goal. The members of THS along with Coach Billings can expect even more from next year's team which will include promising Bruce Ottati, Marty Sherry, and Roger Farah along with those underclassmen already named. With such talent, the roar of the Tiger will not be silenced for some time.

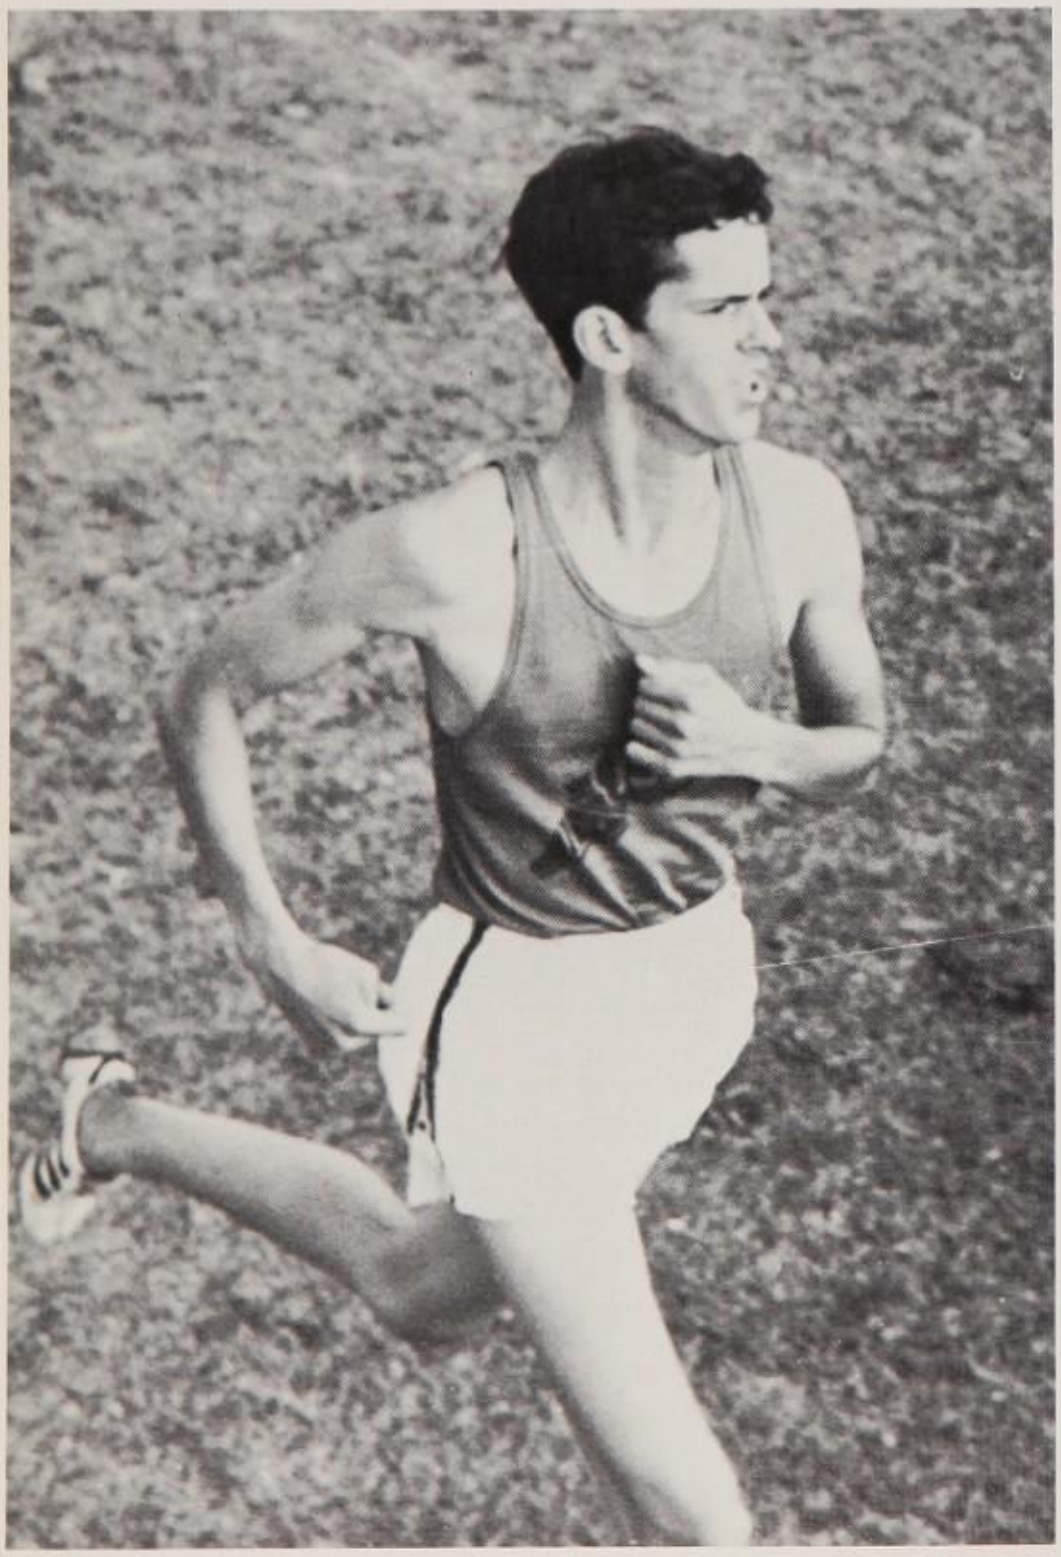
Harrier Future Looks Bright



Phil Miles in the process of adding to his impressive skein of dual meet victories.

Cross country, the most grueling sport THS offers, represents the most thankless activity on the sports roster. No cheering throngs urge the athletes on to victory.

Despite this perennial lack of support, this year's harrier squad has compiled a record of nine wins and three losses. Much of this success is due to Coach Robert Waterman, whose guidance and inspiration spurred the team to their ultimate.

Only seven boys came out for the lonely sport, but fantastic individual efforts enabled the team to win their meets. Phil Miles, Captain David Karaus, Mark Dexter, Gary Halsey, and Alan Brechbill recorded five of the ten best times ever run by a Tenafly man on the home course. It was often that Karaus and Dexter completed a sweep of the first three places, finishing right behind junior standout Phil Miles. Course record holder Miles, undefeated in dual meets, won All-County honors.

Although this was a banner year for Tenafly cross-country, next year's team will be even better. With six returning lettermen from an already strong team, the Tiger promises to romp in Bergen cross-country again.

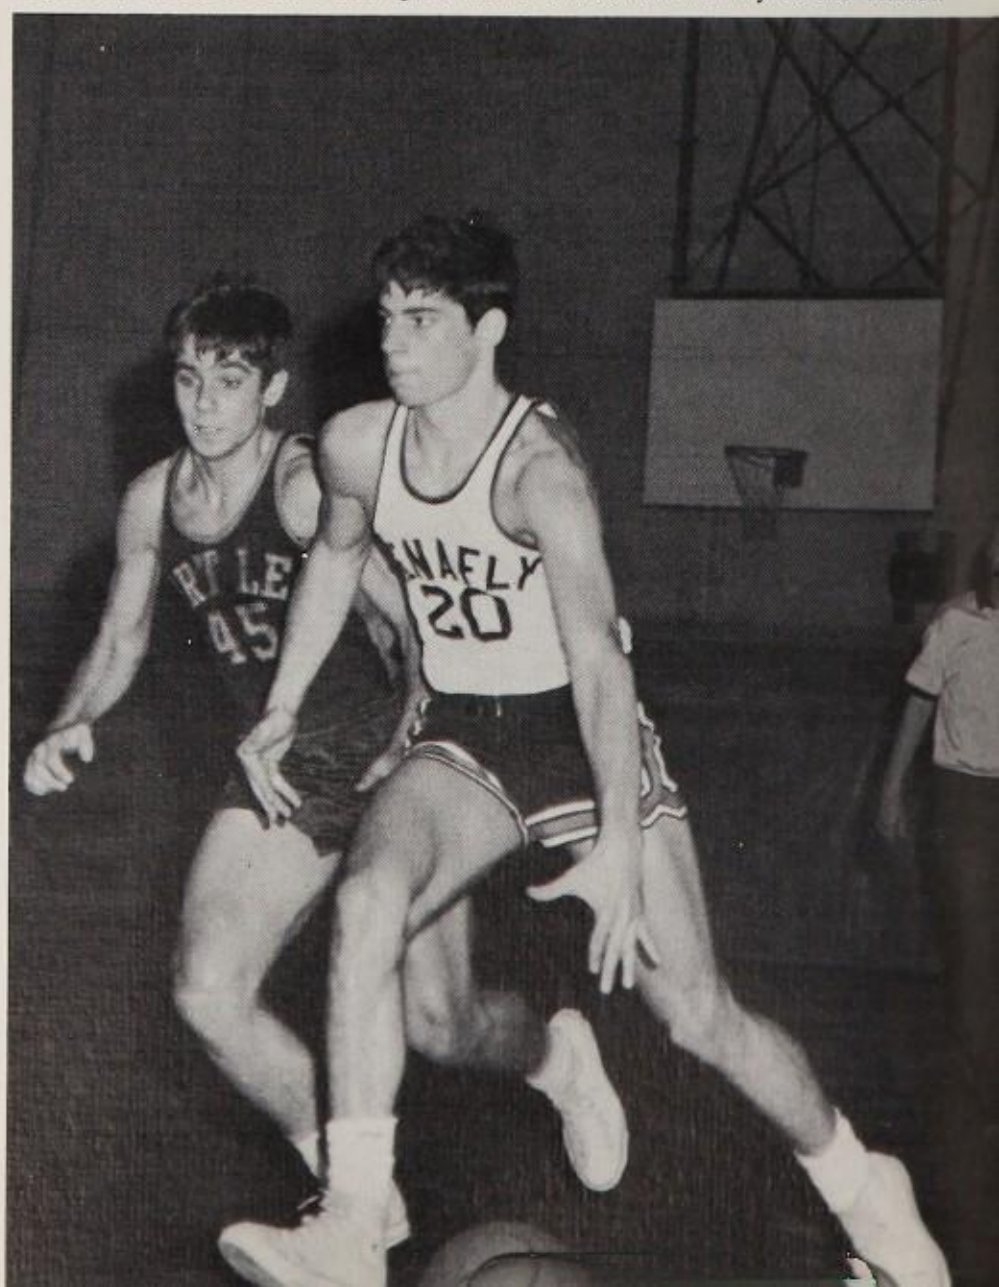
Tiger top scorer Henry Farah puts move on foe on his way to the basket.



The Tenafly Basketball team was an unknown quantity at the beginning of the '68-'69 campaign. Although they boasted five returning lettermen, a lack of height seemed to doom the team to another dismal season. All doubts were erased quickly in a resounding 77-60 opening game triumph over highly touted Old Tappan. The Tigers continued their out-of-league dominance by defeating River Dell and Bergenfield to capture the prestigious Christmas Bell tournament.

With Henry Farah shouldering the scoring burden and Dave Mosconi controlling the backboards, Tenafly prepared themselves for the BCSL race. Tenafly's main problem proved to be the powerful opponents within its division. Cliffside Park, Fort Lee and Dumont, three of the top teams in the county dealt the Tigers a total of six losses. Tenafly defeated all other teams in the league and lost only one contest outside their league.

The even distribution of talent overpowered most foes. Senior Dennis Tang was the squad's ballhandler all season. Frank Wunschel provided scoring punch together with his flamboyant style of play. In the forecourt the Farah brothers, Henry and Roger, proved to be a difficult duo to deal with as they combined scoring power and rebounding strength. Dave Mosconi, the tallest Tiger, was the center for the club. He garnered more than his share of rebounds, while leading the club in field goal percentage, making more than half of the shots he attempted. The team's depth was evident in the presence of seniors Jim Hosmer and Russ Zandonella. Underclassmen Henrik Linna and John Yaldizian join sophomore star Roger Farah in providing a basis for next year's quintet.

Matmen Post Winning Year

This year's wrestling team continued its winning ways, though faced with injuries, weight problems, and the flu. In spite of these difficulties, the Tiger matmen finished the season with 8 wins and 5 losses. Guided by Coach Hurst, a man truly devoted to the sport, the Tigers won when they knew they could, but lost to the League powerhouses such as Saddle Brook and Westwood.

Leading the grapplers were a senior, a junior and a sophomore. Senior Flip Langan (178), co-captain along with Pat Foxen (148), lost only one match in all competition, while winning ten. Registering six pins over the course of the year, Joe Nicolai (157), led the team in total points as a junior. Ted Van Poznak, the Tigers' heavyweight, has quite a future. He was second in the league meet, as were Flip Langan, Mike Langan (123), and Kevin Coyle (168); and he is only a sophomore. Coyle had a fine year as did Bob Steneck (141). Ray Loeb (136) and Pete Rogers (130) wrestled in the roughest weight classes of the league, and yet held their own. Bob Kutik (117), Roy Meli (106), and freshman David Nunez (98) also wrestled well.

With many promising underclassmen ready to take over for the next few years, the day when the Tiger reigns as wrestling king seems to be approaching.

This year's bowling team rolled on to a successful season, led by Captain Gary Toleno. The team bowled at a respectable average of 149, while high average honors were garnered by Captain Toleno at 170. Senior runner-up Gary Hillard bowled at 160, John Taxeras at 145, Rich Jaeger at 140, and Steve Horowitz at 130.

Although the Tigers ran into trouble early in the season by losing a close match to Hasbrouck Heights by only three pins, the team fought its way back to a .500 season.

The squad, accompanied by Coach McDermott, travels to Teaneck for all of its matches. With only one senior on this year's team, Tenafly can look forward to four returning lettermen next year, indicating future success.

Indoor and Outdoor Trackmen Vanquish Foes

Determined Dave Anderson prepares to overtake his foe.

Our always tough Tenafly Indoor Track team displayed tremendous potential and great underclass strength this year although it did not win any team titles. Led by their hard-nosed coach, Robert Waterman, the Tigers proved that they will be tough to cope with in the future.

Only in the 440 did the seniors dominate, with Captain Randy Spydell, Tom Shadek, and Dave Anderson excelling. Freshman Keith McKellop also did well in this event, giving evidence that he will be the next great Tenafly sprinter. Hurdlers Nick Couper, Phil Harvey, Richard Thompson, and Charles Elster made up the shuddle hurdles relay team which captured a bronze medal at the State Relays. Mark Dexter overcame early season injuries to develop as a superb half-miler.

In the longer distances, Phil Miles exhibited championship form as he ran the two-mile run in 9:52, shaving three seconds off the previous school record. Freshmen Richard Karrh and Glen Hutloff showed exceptional promise as milers. In the field events, Mike Hollander excelled in the shot while Dave Ewald often placed well in the high jump.

With such exceptional underclass talent, it appears as if Coach Waterman's trackmen will win State Championships again in the near future.

The perennial strength of Tenafly's track team was proved again in 1969 in a dramatic fashion. After dropping the opening dual meet to NNJIL power Bergenfield, the Tigers methodically reeled off track victories over league rivals in an effort to recapture the BCSL crown.

The team is led by two of last year's stars in seniors Mike Hollander and Randy Spydell. Both dominated their respective specialties, Spydell in the sprints and Holly in the weight events. Juniors Pete Courand and Tom Young provided depth behind Captain Spydell, while veterans John Direse and Don Benasich furnished vital points for the Tigers in the discus and shot put. Sophomores Mark Dexter and Phil Harvey were instrumental in the middle distance events, both alternating between the grueling 440 and 880 yard runs.

As the distances got longer, the Tigers remained strong. Freshman Rich Karrh was outstanding in the mile run, and Tenafly's season long running star, Phil Miles, along with cross country captain Dave Karaus, gave Tenafly consistently good performances in the two mile. Junior Gary Halsey did well in both long distance events. The most improved Tiger, junior hurdler Nick Couper, was often a double winner for Tenafly.

The field events were dominated by talented underclassmen. Sophomore Alfie Ward was the top long jumper, and another sophomore, Dave Ewald was the team's top high jumper. The pole vault was a strong event, with junior Tony Donovan and Tim Strelitz performing in track's most difficult event.

The future looks bright as this season was. Although Tenafly will lose several top stars, the expert coaching of Bob Waterman will provide next year's team with able replacements.

Sprinting champion Randy Spydell breaks tape far ahead of opponents.

Tigers Eye BCSL Title

Co-captain and leading slugger, Tom Shadek rocks a shot to deep left field.

Controversy, the subsequent retirement of head coach Jim Hunt, and a late start were the early season keynotes of the Tenafly baseball season. As a result of the lack of sufficient pre-season practice, the team was unable to become untracked in the early going. The Tigers rebounded when the BCSL American League play got underway as they swept four straight and prepared to defend last year's championship.

Captain Tom Shadek led the Tigers at the plate and in the field. Tom was flanked in his centerfield post by slick fielding seniors Don Mason and Al Minetto. The Tiger infield, although frequently subject to strategical changes by head coach Alec Hurst, consisted of seniors also.

Russ Zandonella handled first base masterfully, while Paul Romano proved an adroit fielder at third base. Shortstop Ralph Stanley and second baseman Jim Wurm provided unusually strong defense up the middle. Ed Harris displayed a strong and accurate arm from his catching position, frequently gunning down opposing base-runners. The play of juniors Brian Bernhardt and Ken Fried also gave Tenafly high hopes for the future.

Kevin Coyle was the stalwart of the mound corps, which included the oft-injured Stanley and juniors Jeff Saams, Gary Pichard, and Wynnchuck Earnhart. There was rarely a shortage of runs once the batsmen began to round into form. Captains Shadek and Harris along with lettermen Stanley, Minetto, and Romano formed the heart of the offense. Mason was instrumental in the RBI department, and Zandonella provided several key hits also. The 1969 team was one of the strongest hitting clubs in many years at Tenafly High School.

Altogether, the 1969 season was a highly successful one. The team is indebted to coach Alec Hurst, who made the season enjoyable and the game fun, and most important, showed that there is more to baseball than just winning.

Golfers Hopeful of a Successful Season

Tenafly's 1969 edition of the golf team looks forward to a successful season this year, although tough breaks have spoiled its first two chances of victory. The team, coached by Mr. Littler, lost its second match by only a point, and better results are inevitable as the golfers become more experienced.

Captain Peter Doyne, playing in the number one spot, can look forward to some very difficult matches in his second with the team. Brian Marine, a first year man playing in the second position, is a bright prospect. Gary Toleno, a two year veteran and a consistent winner, along with rookie Steve Friedland, are confident of success in their third and fourth spots, respectively.

In golf, a missed putt or a poor shot from the tee can be crucial, and P. Doyne, B. Marine, G. Toleno, and S. Friedland make every shot count.

Racket Squad Anticipates Undefeated Season

At the outset of the season, the 1969 Tenafly tennis team appeared to possess the necessary talent to win the league championship and challenge for state honors. After five matches, the Tigers had already begun to justify the pre-season optimism by relinquishing only two individual matches of the twenty-three played to that point.

Senior and co-captain Rob Rubin, playing first singles for the third consecutive year, breezed through his early opponents in anticipating an undefeated season. Jeff Parets, also a senior and co-captain, defeated his first five foes with equal ease in establishing his hopes for a spotless record. Bob Prosser, only a sophomore, showed great potential as a singles player with his strong performances. Two juniors, Pete Albertsen and Ken Ersbak combined forces at first doubles to win all of their early matches while two sophomores, Jim Lefkowith and Mike Van Ost, swept through their foes to provide a strong second doubles team. With five lettermen returning next season, Coach McDermott can look forward to another successful campaign in 1970.

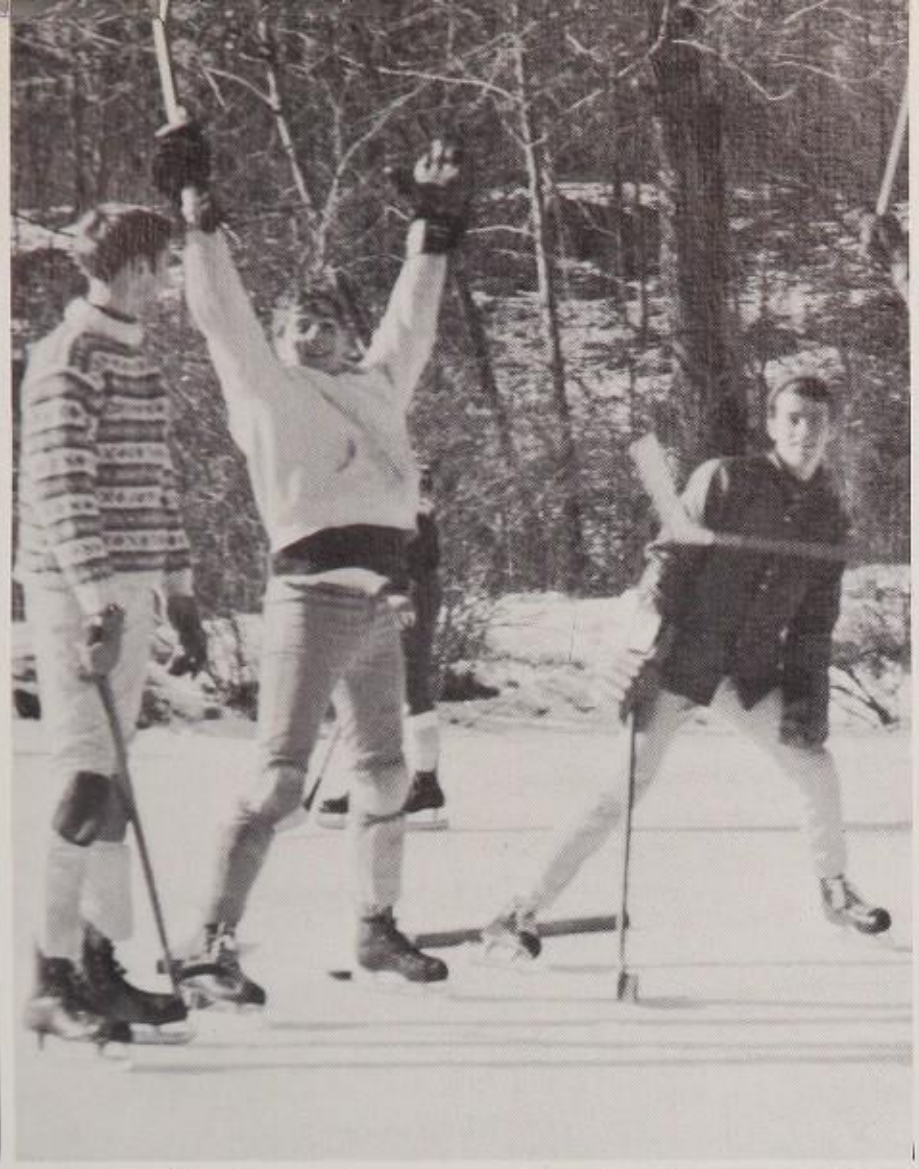
STUDYING GOT YOU "UP TIGHT?"

LIVING WITH THESE 6 SIMPLE RULES



Seniors

We are involved in many activities, but most of all we are involved in being ourselves. And in the years to come when we might not see each other, it will be wonderful to remember those very special people who have touched each of us, and of whom each of us is a part.

Underclassmen

It happens every year, and each year there are more and more of them. They move up a rank in learning and experience, and turn to take on new responsibility in school activity They are perennially the strength of our Student Organization; they provide new ideas and enthusiasm for old ones. In a few short months, THS's halls will meet their new masters, the underclassmen.

Epilogue: Tenafly is only what people have made it to be, just like the rest of the world. And if there is a touch of regret in leaving, it is not because we will miss a place, but rather because parting is "dying a little," and we will miss good times past that can be no more. We hope that newly gained faith in ourselves, in others, in anything, might change again apathy into involvement, and nothing into everything.
